Bantam. 1 Paperback(s), 2012. soft. Book Condition: New. From a helicopter high above the California desert, a man is sent free-falling into the night, and on the streets of Portland, former military police special investigator Jack Reacher is about to be pulled out of his wandering life and into the heart of a conspiracy, in this stunning 11th thriller in Lee Child's action-packed series. Reacher, the ultimate loner, recognizes a signal from one of his old team members, Frances Neagley, and soon he is reunited with the survivors of the unit, scrambling to unravel the sudden disappearance of several comrades. Someone is killing off the members of their unit and you do not mess with the special investigators." The latest Jack Reacher thriller marks a significant departure from the rest of the series. Former military policeman Reacher, now a wanderer without an address, a phone, or an e-mail, discovers that someone has deposited $1,030 in his bank account and quickly deduces (1030 is the MP's code for urgent assistance needed) that the money represents a call for help from Frances Neagley, a sergeant in Reacher's old 'special investigators' unit. Four members of the unit have been killed, and Neagley is rounding up the survivors to avenge their colleagues and, thus, live up to the group's motto: 'You don't mess with the special investigators.' There's a Magnificent Seven aspect to this scenario: bad stuff is happening to good people, and the old gang is rounded up to set things straight. Readers know Reacher only as a loner, a tough guy with his own agenda who falls into stranger's problems, solves them, and moves on, Shane-like. But here we see him functioning as part of a team, almost an organization man, and it reveals new and fascinating aspects to his character. But, as always,...
