University of Nebraska Press. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Trickster in the Land of Dreams (New edition), Zeece Papanikolas, "A treatise on how we seek solace in the arms of illusion and come away empty and confused. Partisan, painful, provocative, funny, sad, brilliant commentary." (Salt Lake Tribune). "An intellectual delight." (Western American Literature). "A brilliantly crafted eye-opener of a book that points to some of the most important errors in history that have cast a shadow on the concept of the American dream since the first encounters between tribal nations and the colonizers." (Southwestern American Literature). "Exceptional, an important 'crossover' book for western studies. It is one of the first fine cultural studies texts in western history." (Western Historical Quarterly). Zeece Papanikolas forges seemingly disparate events and movements in western history - including some of its strangest and most exotic strains - into a coherent whole by examining them against the laughter and wisdom of Shoshonean trickster tales. Seen against these tales, the West becomes both a canvas for the projection of utopian dreams and the site of their shattered remains. Papanikolas undertakes a dramatic retelling of Shoshoni creation stories and examines, along with other topics, the mythologies embedded in the "Dream Mine" of Mormon folklore, the heroic images of cowboys and Wobblies, the MX missile, the dark side of Oz, and the Las Vegas of tourists, dam builders, and gamblers. The author of Buried Unsung: Louis Tikas and the Ludlow Massacre (also a Bison Book), Zeece Papanikolas is on the faculty of the San Francisco Art Institute.
